SPOTLIGHT SKATER

Ava Williams

What are your favorite and least favorite elements?

My favorite element is footwork. I feel it allows me to show my personality on the ice. My least favorite is jumps because it is either a good day or a bad day and you never know what you are going to get.

Favorite program?

My favorite program is my short from this past year. My first skating coach I had since I was 4 years old was the choreographer. I skated to Christina Aguilera's version of "Burlesque." It was fun, sassy, and I loved the footwork in it.

Who is your favorite skater?

Adam Rippon. He is entertaining on the ice. I've met him three times and he was always happy and easy to talk to.

What is the most memorable event of your skating career?

When I attended Nationals in 2014 and met many skating legends.

Tell us about your school and extra-curricular activities.

I am a freshman at Mill Creek High School. My favorite subject is chemistry. My extracurricular activity is dance. I am on the Varsity Dance Team at school as a freshman. I lettered in dance and academics already as a freshman.

I volunteer at my church for the elementary and high school programs. I am a member of Beta Club and National Dance Honor Society; both are service clubs.

If I weren't a skater, I would have been

A soccer player.

Best advice I ever received

Spray your stinky skates with vodka. It will make the smell go away. ~ A skating mom

What famous person would you most like to meet?

Paul McCartney because I love the Beatles and he writes great music.

Tell us something about yourself or your family that no one knows.

I was a featured dancer at the Snow Ball in "Stranger Things."

Tell us about your family, other hobbies, pets.

I have a brother, Jackson (10 years old). He is an actor, swimmer and plays the piano. I have a Toy Poodle named Penny Lane.

What are your future skating and educational goals?

I will be attending college. I see myself working in the medical field. Hopefully, I will be traveling with Disney on Ice during the summer months between college.

My favorite things are

My poodle, school, and church

Whom do you most admire?

My Yiayia ( Grandmother in Greek). She always saw the best in people.

VOLUNTEERS -THE HEARTBEAT OF THE SPORT!

U.S. Figure Skating has approximately 1,600 volunteer officials in a variety of positions. Some are current or former skaters, some are parents of current or former skaters, and some are people who simply love the sport of skating and want to contribute.

Becoming and serving as an official can take a lot of time, but it also has a lot of perks - getting to watch skating, usually from the best seat in the house, knowing you're making it possible for skaters to pursue their dreams by providing the support necessary for competitions and test sessions to be held, and getting to interact with wonderful and interesting people who also share a passion for figure skating.

How much time one commits and the level of appointment pursued are completely up to each individual official, so there's a lot of flexibility to determine how to fit judging, accounting, announcing, etc., around other obligations.

SO YOU WANT TO BECOME ...

A FIGURE SKATING JUDGE

One of the best volunteer activities in figure skating is judging; it's a wonderful way to impart skating knowledge and help young skaters achieve their skating goals. It's also an incredible learning experience and a great way to meet new people.

Although judging is a rewarding activity, it's also a big time commitment. Judges spend countless hours dedicated to their craft - studying, judging tests and competitions, and giving feedback to skaters. Because it's a volunteer activity, be sure you are prepared to put in the time, money, and effort to be the best judge you can possibly be. If you do that, you are sure to have many memorable experiences.

For those interested in becoming a judge, the first step is to review the Trial Judge Kit on the USFS website), which contains all the information and paperwork you'll need to start judging.

Below are answers to some frequently asked questions (FAQs):

Q: How do I know if I would be a good figure skating judge?

A: There are certain fundamentals that individuals should possess if they want to become qualified judges and have positive judging experiences. These characteristics include: 1) A sincere desire to be of service to the sport; 2) ability to make an independent decision; 3) proper temperament and ability to handle stress; and 4) knowledge of the sport

Q: Are there any basic requirements before I get started?

A: Yes, you must be at least 16 years old to be a trial judge (18 to be a judge) and you must have a current U.S. Figure Skating membership.

Q: Do I have to be a really good skater to be a judge?

A: Technical knowledge of figure skating is essential, but each person starts with a different degree of skating knowledge. While former skaters usually have a broader base of technical knowledge when beginning the trial judging process, ability as a skater not in itself the measure of judging ability. There are many good judges who only skated recreationally - in the long run, temperament and willingness to serve more important. A limited skating background should not discourage anyone interested in becoming a judge. Individuals who are new to the sport must be willing to put in the hours necessary to acquire technical knowledge, from studying texts and attending judge's schools to skating themselves (preferably with quality instruction).

Q: Will I get paid for judging?

A: Judging is a volunteer activity. Official judges are reimbursed for out-of-pocket expenses such as travel, room and meals at test sessions and competitions, but they are not paid for their time. Trial judges receive no financial assistance at all from U.S. Figure Skating.

AN ACCOUNTANT

The accountant's role begins weeks or maybe even months before a competition, when the accountant works with the local organizing committee and chief referee to prepare the paperwork that communicates (1) when each event of a competition will begin, (2) where it will be held, (3) which skaters will be in each event and (4) in what order they will skate.

The accountants are also responsible for providing the judges, referees and technical panel officials with documents for recording their decisions. Finally, the accountants are responsible for ensuring that the scoring software is set up properly, the scores are entered accurately, and the results are calculated correctly.

Technical accountants are a subset of accountants who specialize in the setup and operation of the rinkside computer equipment utilized for automated scoring under the international judging system (IJS).

For information pertaining to becoming an accountant or technical accountant as well as information including charts, forms, procedures, school calendars, etc., please go to the Members Only website and click on "Accounting Central."

AN ANNOUNCER

Announcers, as the name indicates, are responsible for announcing each skater/team before he/she/they perform at a competition. Announcers might also be asked to announce scores, names of officials, and other general competition information.

Announcers must be able to work as part of team and have the ability to have excellent rapport with competition hosts, referees and other officials. Announcers should also possess either knowledge of figure skating and an acceptable, pleasing vocal delivery, or be a professional announcer.

Volunteers can serve as announcers at non-qualifying, regional and sectional competitions and the U.S. Collegiate Championships without being certified as an official U.S. Figure Skating announcer. Volunteer announcers are also needed at test sessions and at other qualifying and international competitions to help with practice ice.

If you're interested in getting certified as an announcer, begin by contacting our Volunteer Chair, Heather Stables, at heatherph@gmail.com to let her know of your interest. Those who would like to pursue an announcing appointment should contact U.S. Figure Skating's national vice chair of announcers, Ann O'Keefe, at amokeefe@comcast.net for more information.

A MUSIC OFFICIAL

Music officials are responsible for the setup, tear down and operation of the equipment used to play music at competitions as well as for actually playing the music of each skater/team.

Music officials need a basic knowledge of audio equipment, basic knowledge of figure skating competitions and their protocols, basic operational knowledge of computers, and the ability to work as part of a team.

Volunteers can serve as music officials at non-qualifying competitions without being certified as an official U.S. Figure Skating music coordinator. Simply contact our Volunteer Chair, Heather Stables, at heatherph@gmail.com to let her know of your interest.

Those who would like to pursue a music appointment should contact U.S. Figure Skating's national vice chair of music, Jim Chen, at jchen428@aol.com for more information.
